

Supporting your child's wellbeing

Dear Parents and Carers,

During this difficult time, I wanted to reach out to let you know that, even though our schools are currently closed to all but a few children, we are still here to support your child and your family in whatever way we can.

You might be noticing signs of increasing anxiety in your child as they are spending more time indoors and outside of their normal routines. These might include:

- › Regressing to behaviour they have outgrown, such as thumb-sucking or bed-wetting
- › Showing greater fear at being separated from you
- › Tantrums
- › Trouble sleeping
- › Expressing sadness, anger or fear
- › Sharing false information that they are hearing from their peers or seeing online
- › Wanting to talk about coronavirus all the time
- › Not wanting to talk about the current situation at all
- › Having trouble concentrating

We have put together some resources to help you support your child. We hope you find this information helpful.

If you have any concerns about how your child is coping or you need any other support from the school, please let us know by contacting your child's class teacher through Classroom Dojo or by contacting the Administrator on the school email.

We are extremely grateful for all the support you have shown us as we have adapted to these new circumstances and we want to reassure you that we are still here to support you too.

We can and will get through this together.

Kind regards,

Phil Whittley

Executive Headteacher

Take care of yourself

It is important right now to take care of your own physical and mental health. Children are very perceptive, and they react to what they sense from the adults around them.

Here are some things you can do to help keep yourself healthy:

- › Connect with others – maintain relationships with people you care about through phone and video calls.
- › Exercise – take some time every day to move. You could go for a walk or run. You will also find many fitness videos online for everything from yoga to dance. Find something you enjoy and that makes you feel good.
- › Eat healthy meals – try to keep a well-balanced diet and drink enough water.
- › Get some sleep – being anxious or worried can have a big impact on your sleep. If you are struggling to get a good night's sleep, try to develop a calming bedtime routine – for example, do 10 minutes of yoga or listen to calming music. There are also apps you can download that provide guided meditation to help you get to sleep more quickly.
- › Turn off the news – it is important to keep up to date, but the 24-hour news cycle can make you more anxious. Limit your exposure to the news to only a small amount of time, just enough to know what the latest government guidance is.
- › Do things you enjoy – now that we are all spending more time at home, we can finally take up that hobby we have always meant to learn. Try baking, gardening, or learning to knit. These are also great activities we can share with our children.
- › Set goals – it is easy to lose track of the days in our current situation, so it can be helpful to set daily and weekly goals to give us a sense of control and purpose. Examples might be setting a goal of walking for half an hour at least 3 times this week or reading a new book.
- › Connect with the outdoors – depending on where you live, it may not be possible to spend time outside. If you do not have a garden or terrace, you can still open a window to let some fresh air and sunlight in. Put a comfortable chair by the window so you can look outside and get some air as you read a book.
- › Talk to someone – during this difficult time, sharing with family and friends how you are feeling and what you are doing to cope can be helpful for both you and them. There are also helplines you can call for support – we have included a list at the end of this pack.

How to talk to your child about what is happening

The tips here are from the article Coronavirus: addressing pupil anxiety.

No matter how calmly you manage the current environment, children are likely to be anxious, so it is important to talk to them about what is happening.

For younger children

Children pick up bits of information from their friends, from the news and from listening to adults talking around them – but they can misunderstand what they are hearing.

- › Deal with the news head-on and talk about it openly and calmly, giving them the facts
  - Give them age-appropriate information – take a look at:
    - BBC Newsround hub – regularly updated with information and advice
    - #covibook – for under 7s
    - Children's guide to coronavirus – a download from the Children's Commissioner to help explain the situation to children

- Teach them how to know if information they find on the internet is reliable. Explain how some stories on social media may be based on rumours or inaccurate information.
- Encourage them to take breaks from listening to or reading the news – overexposure is not helpful.

➤ Encourage questions

- This will give them the confidence to reach out, if they have anything to ask.
- Be reassuring but honest when answering questions – it is ok if you do not have all the answers.
- Be ready to answer the same question over and over – children tend to repeat themselves when they are feeling uncertain or worried, so you might have to answer the same questions more than once as they seek extra reassurance.

➤ Be a role model

- Recognise and manage your own worries first.
- Be open about your own feelings and let them know it is normal to be concerned – for example, let them know you are also finding the news a bit worrying and what you are doing to stay calm.

➤ Explain how our body's immune system protects us

- It is constantly working against germs without us knowing. We cannot and do not need to control this process.
- Explain that we are taking precautions against this particular germ because it is a new one which our bodies have not come across before.
- Remind them how important it is that they eat healthy food, sleep and exercise, as this helps to fight germs.
- If it helps, reassure them that the effects of this virus on healthy young people are very mild.

➤ Keep doing your bit to help children reduce the spread of germs

- Remind them to maintain good hygiene like bathing daily and wearing fresh clothes.
- Encourage them to sing 'happy birthday' twice when they are washing their hands.

If you have older children in your household

Older children will have the same anxieties about their own health and that of their family and friends as younger children. However, they are also likely to feel socially isolated and worried about the result of school closures on their education and what life will be like after the pandemic is over.

In addition to the steps above:

- Reassure them that when more guidance comes from the school about how grades will be awarded, you will share this with them as soon as you have it – you could also check that they understand the information you have received so far, in case there are any points of confusion or worry that the school could help too.
- Encourage them to maintain social ties – relationships are especially important for older children, so give them room to keep in touch with their friends.
- Equip them with accurate information – for example:
  - Mythbusters from the World Health Organization
  - Data visualisation pack from Information is Beautiful (regularly updated)
- Share tools to help them manage anxiety
  - YoungMinds: practical steps to take if you're anxious about coronavirus
  - Mind: how to take care of your wellbeing when staying home

If your child struggles with higher levels of anxiety

Some children are naturally more anxious, such as those with existing phobias or obsessive-compulsive disorders. The current situation can make those anxieties worse.

- Get them to do activities such as counting, ordering and sorting tasks which can help them calm down.
- Encourage them to use relaxation techniques such as controlled breathing.
- Look out for obsessive or compulsive behaviours and try to get ahead of them early by challenging unhelpful thoughts and assumptions.
- If you are worried about your child's anxiety, YoungMinds is a charity dedicated to children's mental health. They have opened a parents' helpline for confidential, expert advice. You can reach them at 0808 802 5544.

Helplines and websites for children and young people

If your child would like to speak with someone confidentially, there are helplines and websites specifically for them.

How to make home learning work for your family.

We are realistic about what pupils will be able to do during this period, and we want you to be too.

You are not expected to become teachers and your children are not expected to learn as they do in school. Simply providing them with some structure at home will help them to adapt and keep the 'habit of learning'.

The following tips are designed to help you create a positive learning environment at home. See what works best for your household.

- Create and stick to a routine if you can. This is what children are used to. For example, eat breakfast at the same time and make sure they are dressed before starting the 'school' day – avoid staying in pyjamas.
- Involve your children in setting the timetable where possible. It is a great opportunity for them to manage their own time better and it will give them ownership
- Check in with your children and try to keep to the timetable, but be flexible. If a task/activity is going well or they want more time, let it extend where possible

- › If you have more than one child at home, consider combining their timetables. For example, they might exercise and do maths together – see what works for your household.
- › Designate a working space if possible, and at the end of the day have a clear cut-off to signal school time is over .
- › Stick the timetable up on the wall so everyone knows what they should be doing when, and tick activities off throughout the day.
- › Take stock at the end of each week. What is working and what is not? Ask your children, involve them too.
- › Distinguish between weekdays and weekends, to separate school life and home life.
- › Give them chores to do so they feel more responsible about the daily routine at home.
- › Ask them to help you cook and bake.
- › Accept that they will probably watch more TV/spend time on their phone – that is ok but you might want to set/agree some screen time limits.

Please do not worry about your children getting behind with learning. Everyone is in the same boat and when things get back to normal we will make sure we get everyone back on track.
